RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT – STRUCTURED PRODUCT INVESTMENT/-i

This Risk Disclosure Statement seeks to provide the Investor with a brief outline of some but not all of the risks associated with investing and trading in Structured Product Investments/-i linked to a Reference Derivative and any such other Structured Product Investments/-i approved by Bank Negara Malaysia and the Securities Commission which the Bank may offer from time to time. The Risk Disclosure Statement must be read together with the Terms & Conditions, the Master Term Sheet, the Product Highlights Sheet, the Confirmation and any other documents, forms and mandates required by the Bank and executed by the Investor. Terms used in this Risk Disclosure Statement shall have the same meaning as defined in the Terms & Conditions.

An Investor should not enter into/invest in a structured product investment/-i unless the Investor fully understands:

- (a) The nature and fundamentals of the product and the market underlying such product;
- (b) The extent of the economic risk to which the Investor is exposed as a result of the investment and has determined that such risk is suitable for the Investor in light of the Investor's specific experience in relation the specific investment and the Investor's financial objectives, circumstances and resources;
- (c) The legal terms and conditions of the documentation for the investment;
- (d) The income tax treatment of the investment (which can be complex); and
- (e) The regulatory treatment of the investment.

General Risks

Various risks are associated with investing in Structured Product Investments/-i which are structured by combining a deposit/investment with one or more financial instruments, including one or more Reference Derivative which carries a high degree of risks and may not be suitable for many members of the public. Each Structured Product Investment/-i has its own risk profile and given the unlimited number of possible combinations, it is not possible to detail in this Risk Disclosure Statement all the risks which may arise in any particular case. As such, prior to engaging in the Structured Product Investments/-i, the Investor should fully understand the nature of the particular Structured Product Investment/-i and the inherent risks involved. These risks include but are not limited to the following.

Price and Market Risks

1. The prices, rate, index or movement in value of a Reference Derivative are subject to the risks of market fluctuations or other factors including without limitation political, economic, monetary conditions, business environment, investor sentiment and consumer confidence.
2. Because prices and features or characteristics of a particular over-the-counter Reference Derivative are often bilaterally negotiated with counterparty, there may be no central source for obtaining prices and there can be inefficiencies in the pricing of such Reference Derivatives. The Bank makes no representation or warranty that its prices will always be the best prices available to the Investor.
3. Under certain circumstances, the specifications of outstanding contracts may be modified by an exchange or clearing house to reflect changes in the underlying interest.
4. Trading on one electronic trading system may differ not only from trading in an open-outcry market but also from trading on other electronic trading systems.
5. In effecting an off-exchange transaction, the Bank may be acting as the Investor's counterparty. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime, compared to on-exchange transaction. Before the Investor undertakes such transactions, the Investor should familiarize itself with the applicable rules and attendant risks.

Country Risks

6. Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets linked to a domestic market, may be subject to rules which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before the Investor invests, the Investor should carefully read and understand about any rules relevant to the Investor's particular investment. The Malaysian local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of the regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where the Investor's investments have been effected. The Investor should consult professional advisers for details about the types of redress available in both Malaysia and other relevant jurisdictions before any investment is made.
7. Any imposition by a country of exchange controls or other limitations or restrictions may cause payments to be made in the local currency instead of the original invested currency or may result in the inability to effect outward remittances of funds from such country, which can affect the value of the Structured Product Investments/-i or the Investor's ability to enjoy its benefit.

Liquidity and Market Disruption

8. Structured Product Investments/-i are tailor made instruments and the resulting package may not have similar characteristics as other financial instruments. The integrated nature of the Structured Product Investments/-i results in instruments that are relatively illiquid and the Structured Products Investments/-i may or may not be in the form of a transferable instrument or investment. There may not be a secondary market for the Structured Product Investments/-i and the Structured Product/-i may not be readily sold or transferred to a third party. The Investor may not in any event be permitted to transfer or assign its interest in the Structured Product Investments/-i without consent. The absence of a secondary market for Structured Product Investments/-i means that the only option for Investors who wish to redeem or terminate a Structured Product Investments/-i prior to its maturity will be to use the early redemption arrangements for the investment, if any, as specified in the Master Term Sheet or maintain the Structured Product Investment/-i until maturity. The amount payable to an investor on early redemption of a Structured Product Investment/-i may be substantially less than the amount originally invested. Accordingly, Structured Product Investments/-i are suitable only for investors who do not require liquid investments and who have the intention and ability to invest in and held to maturity, medium to long term investment products.

9. Adverse market conditions may result in the Investor not being able to effect the transactions, liquidate all or part of the Structured Product Investments/-i, assess a value or the Investor's exposure or determine a fair price, as and when the Investor requires. This may also arise from the rules in certain markets (for example, the rules of a particular exchange may provide for "circuit breakers" where trading is suspended or restricted at times of rapid price movements).
10. The normal pricing relationship between a Reference Derivative and the underlying assets may not exist in certain circumstances. For example, this can occur when a futures contract underlying an option is subject to price limits while the option is not. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge "fair" value.

Currency Risks

11. Fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates will have an impact on the Investor's profit and loss where an Investment involves a foreign currency element or where the Investor carries on its ordinary business or keeps its accounts in a currency other than the original currency in which the Structured Product Investment/-i is denominated.

Credit Risks and Legal Risks

12. The payment of any Return (if any) is dependent on the credit standing of the Bank. The Investor should be aware that the Structured Product Investments/-i are not deemed to be deposits of the Bank but are unsecured liabilities of the Bank.
13. Structured Product Investments/-i are not guaranteed by the Bank or by its affiliates or subsidiaries, and are subject to the risks of the Bank making good, valid, or timely delivery or payment to the Investor. The investor should also familiarize himself with the protection accorded to any money invested for domestic and foreign transactions. The extent to which the Investor may recover his money may be governed by specific legislation or local rules.
14. The Investor must be certain that, by investing in the Structured Product Investments/-i, the Investor is not breaching any legal provisions or ruling that may apply to the Investor which may prevent the Investor from investing in the Structured Product Investments/-i. The Investor must also be aware that the Bank is subject to various legal provisions and that the Bank's ability to perform under the terms of the Structured Product Investments/-i is dependent on the absence of any legal impediments and obstacles that may prohibit the Bank's discharge of its obligations under the Structured Product Investments/-i. The Structured Product Investments/-i are also issued subject to prevailing rules and regulations issued by the relevant regulatory authorities, which at this time comprises of Bank Negara Malaysia and the Securities Commission. The Bank will have to comply with any amendments to the prevailing rules and regulations including without limitation any requirement to cancel the Structured Product Investments/-i. Should such situation occur, the amount to be returned to the Investor (if any) will be determined at the discretion of the Bank acting in good faith. Such amount could be lower than the Principal Amount.
15. Foreign exchange regulations in some countries may also impose restrictions on the exchange and transfer of invested funds. The settlement of exchange traded transactions underlying the Reference Derivative in emerging markets may not meet the norms of the established financial centers. Due to the lack of clear, standardized regulations for settling or clearing, delays in booking or failed traders with corresponding losses may occur.
16. The reform of regulatory supervision and legislation in emerging markets may not always keep pace with developments in mature markets. Independent supervision of business practices, stock market dealings and issuers, may not be as developed as in more mature markets. Insufficient transparency means a greater likelihood of market-distorting influences. Moreover, not all countries have a mature legal system with transparent standards and precedents. The Investor in such instances may have no guarantee that they will be able to assert their rights before local courts.

Swaps and Options Risks

17. Structured Product Investments/-i may incorporate various types of financial swaps and/or options. Transactions in swaps and/or options may involve a high degree of risk and the value of such swaps and/or options is subject to a wide variety of market forces including without limitation the movement of the underlying asset, rate or index, the volatility of the assets, rates or indices and other considerations and may not be suitable for many members of the public. The Investor must be aware of the highly customized nature of swaps and/or options and the consequent illiquid nature of these swaps and/or options. Additionally, value of options contains time value, which declines as maturity of the option draws closer. The Investor is responsible for ensuring that the Bank receives adequate and timely instructions as to the exercise or abandonment of any swaps, options or the Structured Product Investment/-i itself unless automatic exercise of the swaps and/or option applies as provided under the terms of the Structured Product Investment/-i.

The risks associated with selling ("writing") an option are generally greater than purchasing an option. It is important that the Investor understands the risks to which the Investor would be exposed to if the Structured Product Investments/-i is structured to embed the sale of options by the Investor.

WARNING

THE RETURNS OF YOUR STRUCTURED PRODUCT INVESTMENT/-i WILL BE AFFECTED BY THE PERFORMANCE OF THE UNDERLYING ASSET / REFERENCE, AND THE RECOVERY OF YOUR PRINCIPAL INVESTMENT MAY BE JEOPARDISED IF YOU MAKE AN EARLY REDEMPTION. THIS STRUCTURED PRODUCT INVESTMENT/-i IS NOT PROTECTED BY PERBADANAN INSURANS DEPOSIT MALAYSIA.

The risks associated with entering into swaps could be non-linear and further embedded with optionality such as periodical right to terminate (see Call Risk). It is important that the Investor understands the risks to which the Investor would be exposed to if the Structured Investment Product/-i has such embedded swaps.

Mismatch Risk

- Investors intending to invest in Structured Investments/-i to hedge against or manage any market or other risk to which the Investor is subject should recognize the complexities of utilizing Structured Product Investments/-i in this manner. For example, the value or term of the Structured Product Investment/-i may not exactly correlate with the value or term of the underlying risk to which the Investor is subject. Such prospective investors should ensure that the maturity and other terms and conditions of the Structured Product Investments/-i are carefully matched with the risks to which the Investor is seeking to hedge or manage. Failure to do so could result in a mismatch between the Structured Product Investments/-i and the risks being hedged and/or the need to early redeem or terminate the Structured Product Investment/-i.

Prepayment and Commitment Risk

- The Tenor of each Structured Product Investment/-i is pre-determined and in the case of a Principal Protected Investment, the Principal Amount is only protected if held to maturity. The Investor is therefore undertaking to commit its invested funds for the entire Tenor of the Structured Product Investment/-i or until the Structured Product Investment/-i is recalled before the Maturity Date in line with any callable features. If the Investor needs to redeem or terminate the Structured Product Investment/-i before the Maturity Date, he/she may submit a request to the Bank in such manner as acceptable to the Bank. It is the Bank's discretion whether to agree to such requests with or without any additional conditions and, if so agreed, the Bank will, acting in good faith, calculate the sum to be returned to the Investor. Such calculations will have to factor in various costs in unwinding the Structured Product Investment/-i and these include the cost of funds in terminating/uplifting the Principal Amount and/or the cost of terminating, liquidating or re-establishing any hedge or trading position related to the embedded Reference Derivative along with any other fees and costs incurred in making such arrangements. Consequently, any early termination/withdrawal of the Structured Product Investment/-i by the Investor may result in receiving a Payout Amount lesser than the Principal Amount and in some cases may even be non-existent.

Operational Risk

- The Investor needs to be aware that payment under the various Structured Product Investments/-i is dependent on the smooth functioning of a myriad of component parts. Any disruption to any of these parts, which could be caused by any number of factors, for example, market disruption or system interruption may cause delays beyond the control of the Bank. In addition, the Investor should be aware of the need to monitor the Structured Product Investments/-i and to take any follow-up action the Investor deems necessary when the Structured Product Investment/-i matures or when the Investor receives the Interest/Profit (if any).

Counterparty Risk

- In hedging the Structured Product Investments/-i, the Bank enters into hedging transactions with various hedge counterparties. These transactions give rise to counterparty risk as the payments on the Structured Product Investments/-i depend on these transactions.
- In the event of any counterparty default, the Bank reserves the right to replace the Reference Derivative with a similar Reference Derivative or to unwind any hedging transaction with the defaulting counterparty. In such instance, the Investor may be subject to but not limited to Prepayment and Commitment Risk such as Price and Market Risks as stated above.
- The Investor should take note and understand from the Master Term Sheet and other product documents whether the Structured Product Investment/-i is protected by Perbadanan Insurans Deposit Malaysia.

Call Risk

- Certain Structured Product Investments/-i may contain callable features which permit the Bank to terminate the Structured Product Investments/-i and to return the Investor's Principal Amount (if any) before the Maturity Date. Such right can only be exercised by the Bank in accordance with the Master Term Sheet and/or the Confirmation. The Investor should be aware that if the call is exercised by the Bank this will limit the Investor's ability to accrue interest/profit over the full term of the investment. The Investor should also be aware that upon a call and early return of the Investors investment, the Investor may not be able to obtain the same economic terms as the original Structured Investment Product/-i that was terminated by a call.

Compensation Fund

- The Investor will not be covered by the compensation fund under section 159 of the Capital Markets and Services Act 2007 (CMSA) if the Investor suffers monetary loss as a result of a defalcation, or fraudulent misuse of moneys or other property, by a director, officer, employee or representative of the Bank.
