MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET ENVIRONMENT

US dollar denominated Asian high yield bonds posted positive returns over the quarter, primarily driven by coupon income. High yield credit spreads tightened at the start of the period, due to stronger earnings, low inflation and supportive fund flows, before widening in the later part of the quarter due to concerns over monetary/regulatory tightening in China and strong supply of new issues. Market subsequently stabilised as economic data remained solid. The US Treasury yield curve flattened and US government bonds posted overall gains as long-term yields declined, reflecting subdued inflation. This helped to offset losses on the short and medium end of the yield curve as the US Federal Reserve raised interest rates for the third time in 2017 and the Senate approved the biggest overhaul of the US tax code. At a country level, Chinese leaders reiterated their agenda of focussing on curbing financial risk, eradicating poverty, fighting pollution and supply side reforms, while maintaining steady growth. Meanwhile, rating agency Moody's upgraded India's sovereign rating to Baa2. Furthermore, the government announced a bank recapitalisation plan for state-owned banks worth $32 billion over two years to address bad loans, stimulate credit growth and support private sector investments. Fitch upgraded its sovereign rating for Indonesia citing resilience to external shocks and economic policies designed to maintain stability.

FUND POSITIONING

The Target Fund manager remains positive on the macroeconomic environment in Asia. Recent regulatory tightening in onshore China, despite causing some volatility, was demonstrative of the government's will to tackle negative events in the system proactively. In India, recent economic numbers have decreased, which could be a function of both transitionary and structural forces. However, the economy is expected to be supported by further fiscal stimulus in the form of infrastructure spending and bank recapitalisations until the 2019 elections.

Macroeconomic improvements in Indonesia were affirmed by Fitch's rating upgrade during the quarter. Consumption data in the country is expected to improve further in the second half of 2018, due to higher wages and government subsidies to the lower income population. Regarding potential headwinds, geopolitical uncertainty such as tension in North Korea or surprise moves by central banks could lead to some market volatility. Another development that the Target Fund manager is closely monitoring is the supply of new issuance. Onshore maturities in 2018 and tighter restrictions on onshore issuance may further support offshore high yield bonds supply and weigh on the strong technical in the asset class.

Focus on high quality issuers

The Target Fund is defensively positioned, with a bias towards higher quality and strong conviction issuers. In addition to its cash holding, the Target Fund has 10–15% market weight in short dated (<1year)/near-term callable bonds to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. This also keeps the Target Fund's overall volatility relatively low.
