MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET REVIEW

Asia ex-Japan equities fell in February, underperforming global stocks. Asian stocks erased gains from the prior month as volatility levels spiked, alongside wild gyrations amid a global rout of equities. Investors sought justification to the sell-offs including a systematic correction in US stocks, a surge in the 10-year US Treasury yield, a nearing of US Federal Reserve (Fed) tightening measures and mounting risks from US fiscal deficits.

Global growth remained firm with manufacturing numbers signalling a continuing expansion. The official Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) for the US hit a record 60.8, the fastest rate since May 2004, and the 18th straight month of expansion. Over in China the manufacturing PMI printed at 50.3 while the Caixin factory gauge rose to 51.6 from the previous month. Other major economies like Japan, the Eurozone and India saw manufacturing numbers declining slightly.

North Asia stocks including China weathered more significant declines. Chinese stocks tumbled despite a good set of earnings results and solid fundamentals. The defensive nature of consumer staples performed as the best sector. For Hong Kong, the index fared better than the benchmark led by banks on a good set of earnings results and the increasingly probability of a Fed rate hike. A technology driven sell-off dragged Taiwan stocks lower as tech giants reported weaker-than-expected sales revenue and earnings results.

Similarly in Korea, global flows rather than fundamental drivers sank equities into the red. With the exception of healthcare, all sectors remained in negative territory. India was the worst performing market as authorities widened the probe into the nation's biggest ever banking fraud case.

All ASEAN markets outperformed the benchmark. Thailand was as the only market to register gains for the month in Asia ex-Japan. Thai stocks were sheltered from the global rout in part due to demand from local retail investors and improving economic figures. Malaysia's defensive energy sector helped to cushion the global sell-down. Across the causeway, Singapore's losses were kept low as the three local banks, comprising the lion's share of the market, remained in the green. For Indonesia, the materials and utilities sector led the market. The country announced plans to reintroduce sugar tax and President Jokowi nominated a deputy governor at Bank Indonesia, as the sole candidate to replace Governor Agus Martowardojo whose term ends in May. Philippines registered as the worst performing market in ASEAN, as investors were spooked by a peso depreciation which was spurred by a record trade deficit.

DISCLAIMER:

Based on the fund's portfolio returns as at 15 February 2018, the Volatility Factor (VF) for this fund is 9.9 and is classified as "High". (source: Lipper) "High" includes funds with VF that are above 8.0 but not more than 10.6 (source: Lipper). The VF means there is a possibility for the fund in generating an upside return or downside return around this VF. The Volatility Class (VC) is assigned by Lipper based on quintile ranks of VF for qualified funds. VF is subject to monthly revision and VC will be revised every six months. The fund's portfolio may have changed since this date and there is no guarantee that the fund will continue to have the same VF or VC in the future. Presently, only funds launched in the market for at least 36 months will display the VF and its VC. The VC referred to was dated 31 December 2017 which is calculated once every six months and is valid until its next calculation date, i.e. 30 June 2018.
