MANAGER'S COMMENTS*MARKET REVIEW

Singapore's Industrial Production (IP) jumped 17.9% YoY in January and the manufacturing PMI was the highest since December 2009 at 52.7. The strong rebound in IP was due to seasonal effect on rushed orders to beat the Lunar New Year holiday. Electronics exports rose to 32.4% YoY. Recovery was broad-based in the manufacturing sector especially in precision engineering. Inflation slows with CPI and core CPI up 0.0% and 1.4% YoY respectively.

MARKET OUTLOOK & STRATEGY

US real GDP grew 2.6% QoQ in 4Q 2017 and missed expectations of 3.0%. The GDP miss was due to strength in goods imports and inventory accumulation. Core inflation surged higher in January at 1.8% YoY, higher than consensus expectations of 1.7% YoY. The pick-up in inflation was attributed to core good prices and used auto prices. President Trump signed a budget bill which ended an hours-long shutdown in the government.

Moving forward, the Target Fund Manager continues to focus on companies that is equipped with strong cash flow to pay high and sustainable dividends. These dividends represent a tangible return on investment and provide a bulwark against market uncertainty.
