MANAGER'S COMMENTSMARKET BACKGROUND

European equities rebounded in April, although markets remained volatile. The Target Fund's benchmark index rose by 4.0% in euros and by 4.1% in sterling over the month.

President Trump's decision to impose a range of trade tariffs continued to unsettle markets, as did China's threatened retaliation, but optimism grew that there may be room for negotiation. Energy stocks were bolstered by oil-price gains – Brent crude reached its highest level since 2014.

The eurozone's preliminary composite PMI steadied in April after an earlier dip, and matched March's final reading of 55.2 (any reading over 50 signifies expansion). UK GDP growth fell to 0.1% in the first quarter of 2018, and consumer price inflation ebbed slightly to 2.5% in March, the lowest rate in a year; a further interest rate increase may be delayed.

The Presidents of North and South Korea met for discussions, potentially defusing tensions in the region, and a further meeting is planned between President Trump and Kim Jong-un. In Italy, politicians attempted to form a coalition government after the recent general election, which saw gains for populist parties. Following a stalemate in the United Nations, the US, France and the UK attacked suspected chemical weapons sites in Syria. This antagonised Russia which was opposed to a strike.

Within the portfolio's benchmark index, Greece, Italy and France delivered the strongest gains, while Turkey, Ukraine and Belgium were weaker. Energy, telecoms and consumer discretionary led the outperforming sectors; healthcare and consumer staples were the main laggards.

MARKET OUTLOOK

European equities are benefiting from encouraging corporate profitability, a supportive economic backdrop in the eurozone, and a resurgence in M&A activity; they are also cheap relative to US equities. Market volatility presents us with investment opportunities.

It will take time before the full effects of Brexit, Italy's recent election and Catalonia's bid for independence become clear. Other risks include heightened tensions with Russia, and an increasingly protectionist stance in the US.

The Target Fund Manager's main focus in managing this high-conviction portfolio is on stock selection. The Target Fund Manager seeks to identify high-quality companies with the pricing power to sustain strong returns.
