MANAGER’S COMMENTS

MARKET OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Equity

The equity market has been hit with multiple headwinds since month of September 2017 and volatility will continue to persist. United States (US) foreign policies and rising US bond yield will be two key risks to the equity market. However, we remain positive on the overall outlook of regional equity market and maintain high equity allocation. China remains as our top invested market with focus on the healthcare sector. We also maintain high exposure in Japan and South Korea.

Technology sector has been one of the worst performing sectors in Asia Pacific as weakened demand on the new Iphone (Iphone 8, Iphone 8 plus and Iphone X) suggested that smartphone total market value already hit saturation points. However, we believe, technology sectors have long way to go as digital economy emerge to replace traditional brick and mortar economy. Having said that, we think new growth drivers will now come from other areas such as 3D sensing, Electric Vehicle & Autonomous Driving and Artificial Intelligence. Hence, we are looking to add more related stocks into our portfolio.

Sukuk

As the United States Federal Reserve (US Fed) decision to normalise rates which is expected to rise at a faster pace than what is currently priced in, we forecast a 25 basis points hike every quarter till end-2019. The next hike is expected to take place during June Federal Open Market Committee meeting. Investors are anticipated to remain cautious in terms of curve positioning ahead of a rising interest rates environment. A more steeper interest rate hike path is expected in 2019 and 2020 premised primarily on stronger US macro-economic outlook.

However, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) predicted that the world’s economy’s strongest upswing since 2011, will continue for another 2 years but warned slowdown or recession will take effect thereafter. Such prediction was premised on the post impact from synchronized tightening monetary policies by central banks, the end of US fiscal stimulus and continued China economic slowdown. IMF also warned that escalating trade wars if left unresolved, may lead to global recession.

Uncertainties surrounding foreign perception towards Malaysia’s political scene and economy post 14th General Elections (GE14) advocated for selling pressure mainly from foreign investors. However, local investors remained supportive of the market which is a sign that markets remain confident under the new government regime which is not likely has any significant detrimental impact on the country’s economic fundamentals. New policies such as reduction in Goods and Services Tax (GST) to zero percent effective June 2018 and the three months tax holiday till September may provide increase in consumer demand. The new Malaysian government also remains confident to achieve the previous 2.8% fiscal deficit target, eyeing additional revenues from oil prices and Government-Linked Company dividends. With these scenarios, we still have a positive long-term view for Malaysia and remain comfortable in tactically nimble around the duration or buying on dips to the portfolio since we do not expect further rate hikes for this year.

DISCLAIMER:

Based on the fund’s portfolio returns as at 15 May 2018, the Volatility Factor (VF) for this fund is 5.9 and is classified as “Moderate”. (source: Lipper) “Moderate” includes funds with VF that are above 6.0 but not more than 8.0 (source: Lipper). The VF means there is a possibility for the fund in generating an upside return or downside return around this VF. The Volatility Class (VC) is assigned by Lipper based on quintile ranks of VF for qualified funds. VF is subject to monthly revision and VC will be revised every six months. The fund’s portfolio may have changed since this date and there is no guarantee that the fund will continue to have the same VF or VC in the future. Presently, only funds launched in the market for at least 36 months will display the VF and its VC. The VC referred to was dated 31 December 2017 which is calculated once every six months and is valid until its next calculation date, i.e. 30 June 2018.
