RHB EUROPEAN SELECT FUND

MANAGER'S COMMENTS*MARKET BACKGROUND

European markets remained subdued during June; the portfolio's benchmark index fell by 0.5% in euros, and rose by 0.3% in sterling.

The European Central Bank indicated that its stimulus programme will be tapered after September, before being wound up at the end of the year, if inflationary conditions permit. The announcement caused little turbulence in equity markets as it had been widely anticipated.

The eurozone's economic backdrop remains supportive, and interest rates are likely to remain low for some time. The ECB expects that GDP growth will be 1.9% in 2019 and forecasts that inflation will rise to 1.7% this year, still below its target of 2%. UK interest rate rises are also on hold for the time being; the economic outlook is clouded by Brexit-related uncertainties.

The US continued to exchange protectionist threats with its major trading partners. Having previously announced that aluminium and steel imports from the European Union would be subject to tariffs, President Trump has now threatened to impose tariffs on vehicles imported from the region. Shares in car manufacturers and related companies weakened in response.

Within the portfolio's benchmark index, Greece, Belgium and Spain delivered the best relative returns. Austria and Turkey were among the main laggards. Utilities, and energy led the outperforming sectors; consumer discretionary and materials were weaker.

MARKET OUTLOOK

European equities are benefiting from encouraging corporate profitability, a supportive economic backdrop in the eurozone, and a resurgence in M&A activity; they are also cheap relative to US equities. Market volatility presents us with investment opportunities.

It will take time before the full effects of Brexit, new governments in Spain and Italy, and Catalonia's bid for independence become clear. Other risks include heightened tensions with Russia and the threat of a global trade war.

The Target Fund Manager's main focus in managing this high-conviction portfolio is on stock selection. The Target Fund Manager seeks to identify high-quality companies with the pricing power to sustain strong returns.
