MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET OVERVIEW

The S&P 500 index gained 0.62% in June, bringing total Q2 returns to 3.43% (total returns, in USD). While the US and China continued to generate trade headlines, the market impact remained relatively muted in April as investors remained relatively resistant to the risk of a trade war. US equities outperformed in May, driven by upside surprises in activity and sentiment data as well as the unemployment rate hitting a new low of 3.8%. However, the equity rally was hampered by escalating geopolitical uncertainty stemming from the unexpected political outcome in Italy, the ongoing unpredictability around the US-North Korea summit and escalating trade tensions. While the Fed rate hike in June was largely expected, the outcome of the FOMC meeting was less accommodative than anticipated. The Fed retained language indicating “accommodative” monetary policy stance, but its growth and inflation forecasts were upgraded, and its median projection was lifted to four hikes in 2018 from three. Continued trade tensions between the US and China hurt market sentiment, with the US threatening tariffs on an additional $200bn worth of Chinese goods and China vowing to retaliate. The best performing sectors over the quarter were Energy, Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology, while the worst performing sectors were Industrials, Financials and Consumer Staples.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The Target Fund Manager continues to believe that equities are more attractive than other asset classes in a synchronous global growth environment. The Target Fund Manager believes continued strong economic conditions may act as a catalyst for revenue-driven earnings growth in the US, presenting a positive backdrop for equities. Following recent market volatility, valuations have moderated and the Target Fund Manager believes are attractive given the many potential tailwinds. The Target Fund Manager does, however, continue to monitor global trade negotiations as current rhetoric could possibly materialize into new policy, potentially disrupting equity market momentum.

Increased geopolitical uncertainty and trade tensions have created more volatility in global equity markets through the first half of the year. Given this backdrop, the Target Fund Manager believes a thorough understanding of both market and company specific variables is crucial to navigating the ever-changing investment landscape. A changing regulatory environment, normalizing monetary policy, and geopolitical uncertainties are just a few of the many macro themes that the Target Fund Manager, as active managers, is closely monitoring. The Target Fund Manager feels these factors may provide a favorable environment for active management and believe that the Target Fund Manager’s time-tested approach of bottom-up stock picking has the potential to deliver strong relative returns.
