MANAGER'S COMMENTS
PORTFOLIO ACTIVITY

The Target Fund slightly increased its profile over the third quarter, bringing its beta to just over 1.0. Similarly, the Target Fund held its underweights to BB rated credits and overweight to select CCCs, while slightly reducing its B rated overweight, over the quarter. Importantly, the Target Fund maintained its underweight to the higher-yielding 8%-plus segment of the market that contains a larger concentration of stressed assets. From a sector perspective, the Target Fund reduced its allocation to chemicals and packaging, while adding to positions in technology. Similarly, the Target Fund remained underweight the retailers and automotive sectors, as fundamental weaknesses associated with these issuers continues. The Target Fund also maintained positions in liquid products (a combination of totalreturn swaps and high-yield index CDX). Tactical positions include CLOs and preferred and common equity.

The Target Fund's core issuer/credit biases remained centered on cashflow views, determination of a specific catalyst and/or idiosyncratic characteristics. The Target Fund Manager has generally underweighted businesses with more cyclical income profiles and/or issuers with obsolete operating models facing secular decline. From a credit standpoint, the Target Fund Manager remains underweight BB rated credits and overweight single-B and select CCC issuers. The Target Fund Manager's conviction for the Target Fund's CCC rated credits is based on at least one of the following: a potential for a near-term upgrade to single-B, a near-term catalyst for price appreciation and/or it is short-duration paper with substantial yield. As noted, retailers and automotive are underweights. Additionally, the Target Fund remains underweight home construction names. The top overweight issuers include: Cheniere Energy (natural gas), Platform Specialty Products (chemicals) and Clear Channel Outdoor (media & entertainment). At quarter-end, the Target Fund had an average credit rating of B1/B+ and a yield-to-worst of 6.1% for the high-yield bonds.

MARKET OUTLOOK AND POSITIONING

The Target Fund Manager continues to see steady global expansion, largely supported by above-trend US growth. However, markets lack consensus on the length of economic expansion, the pace of inflation and the impact of monetary tightening and US fiscal spending on the path of interest rates. As a result, the Target Fund Manager has seen a shift to higher volatility across risk assets and believe this will persist. Third-quarter emerging-market fears depict this phenomenon, as does select volatility within Europe – namely Italy. Specific to high-yield issuers, limited nearterm maturities and healthy fundamentals should keep defaults muted this year. Fewer CCC/lower-quality new deals, coupled with relatively contained LBO activity, are also positive signs for the market, though growing concern regarding investment-grade leverage levels and the possibility of a surge in 'fallen angel' activity is a phenomenon to monitor. Overall, the Target Fund Manager expects high yield to post a positive total return, with the potential for modest spread tightening through the year-end.
