RHB CHINA BOND FUND - RMB CLASS

The Fund aims to maximise total return by investing in one (1) target fund.

MANAGER'S COMMENTSTARGET FUND'S POSITIONING

The Target Fund Manager sees underlying portfolio resilience and credit quality increasing in importance for investments in the coming months. The Target Fund Manager's underlying portfolio has been remarkably resilient, given diversification via risk management between the onshore and offshore market. The Target Fund Manager continues to maintain their preference for offshore hard currency in Q1 2020 for two reasons. One, spread compression given the improving risk-on sentiment. Two, supportive technicals on back of limited supply from LGFVs and properties due to NDRC quota controls.

The Target Fund Manager also expect limited price gains in the onshore market in Q1 on back of local government bond issuance and high CPI, which limits the feasibility of easing measures. Moving into Q2 2020, the Target Fund Manager is likely to increase their allocation in the onshore bond market in anticipation of further easing measures with CPI likely to be subdued.

In the investment grade space, the Target Fund Manager likes onshore central state-owned enterprises, which adds stability to the underlying portfolio through the sector's strong fundamentals - with potential for further spread compression on back of rate cuts. In addition, the Target Fund Manager likes offshore local SOEs holding strategic importance to the state given favourable technicals (strong demand from asset managers and insurance companies) and limited supply going forward.

In the high yield space, the Target Fund Manager continues to see value in sectors such as China HY property given the stable fundamentals and attractive valuations. China had started to tighten financing for Chinese developers which has created a spread premium between the asset classes. Furthermore, the Target Fund Manager's exposure in China property is focused on top companies which would benefit from the deleveraging process on back of more consolidation and increased market share. The Target Fund Manager also like onshore HY industrials given the opportunity for issuer diversification that is absent in the offshore market. At the same time, the Target Fund Manager expects continued easing to benefit the sector with improving credit transmissions.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The Target Fund Manager believes that China's economy will continue to be stable, holding a base view for GDP growth at 6.0% in 2020. Growth will continue to be primarily fuelled by private and government consumption at around 4.5ppt. Investment will likely be stronger at around 2ppt with net exports likely to print a deficit of -0.5ppt as import absorption improves both due to increased investment demand and a phase 1 deal with the US. The partial US-China trade deal removes some downside risk, allaying market fears in the short term. However, structural issues such as intellectual property rights and technology transfer remain unresolved. There is broad, bipartisan support in the U.S. to take a tough stance on China, and China looks prepared for a long struggle to gain global leadership in key future industries.

Stability will be a key priority for China in 2020. The Target Fund Manager expects that the government will continue to maintain a proactive fiscal stance accompanied by accommodative monetary policy. On the fiscal front, the Target Fund Manager sees the government actively seeking to play a more prominent role, as evidenced by the pre-allocation of RMB 1trillion in local government bond quota for bond issuance before Q1 2020 in order to boost infrastructure investment. In terms of monetary policy, the Target Fund Manager expects a policy stance to be marginally easier compared to 2019, as the latest Central Economics Work Conference (CEWC) suggested that policy should be "flexible and appropriate" VS "not too loose and not too tight" for 2019. The Target Fund Manager believes that the PBoC will continue to keep liquidity "reasonably ample" and the growth of money, credit and TSF suitable for economic growth. With that said, the Target Fund Manager expects policy rates to be lowered in a gradual manner given the recent hike in CPI number which will likely to be normalized in Q2 2020.
