MANAGER'S COMMENTS*MARKET REVIEW

Global real estate equities advanced in USD terms during December. European REITs were the best performers followed by Asia Pacific, whilst North America finished down.

MARKET OUTLOOK

The Target Fund Manager continues to focus on real estate equities with larger market capitalisations, a bias towards recurring income (rather than stocks biased towards development) and lower leverage. Despite strong absolute performance from the listed real estate sector in 2019, valuations in most markets remain reasonable on a number of measures, especially in contrast to alternative investment options and in light of accommodative monetary policies. The combination of moderate GDP growth and generally restrained levels of new construction is constructive to future income growth continuing. In an “age of uncertainty,” the unbalanced nature of growth leaves the global economy vulnerable to negative shocks. Real Estate Securities are well positioned, with more predictable earnings and dividends, partly due to REITs’ higher exposure to domestically generated revenues compared to other industry sectors.
