MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET OVERVIEW AND OUTLOOK

The S&P 500 index increased 3.09% in December (total returns, USD), bringing 2019 calendar year total returns to 31.49%, a record high gain with below-average volatility. The US equity market rallied at the start of the year, almost completely recovering from a selloff at the end of 2018. After four gradual rate hikes in 2018, the Federal Reserve cut rates three times in 2019 to keep the economic expansion intact amid trade uncertainties. The trade war between the US and China continued to pressure macroeconomic indicators throughout the first half of the year but did little to suppress a resilient consumer, which ultimately outweighed manufacturing weakness. In the fourth quarter, stock returns accelerated with an uptick of US manufacturing and service sector business surveys, as well as a consistently strong labor market when the US added over 200,000 jobs in November, double the break-even pace of long-term job growth. These developments have helped restore market confidence, while fundamentals of low core inflation, contained financial imbalance, and less drag of a trade war fended off imminent recession risk. The best performing sectors over the year were Information Technology, Communication Services, and Financials, while the worst performing sectors were Energy, Health Care, and Materials.

The US equity market delivered robust performance in 2019, gaining more than 30%. Growth remains near-trend and sequentially accelerating, while a healthy consumer, both in balance sheet and confidence, continues to support the US economy. The Target Fund Manager still favor US equities and believe that there could be further growth, buoyed by low interest rates and steady cash flow generation. Despite increased volatility, the Target Fund Manager thinks that fundamentals remain stable and do not indicate a downturn in global growth or corporate earnings. Within this more volatile backdrop, the Target Fund Manager believes a thorough understanding of both market and company specific variables will be crucial to navigating this environment. With that said, the Target Fund Manager continues to focus on high-quality companies with strong market positions and experienced management teams for a longer-term horizon.
