MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Looking ahead, the Target Fund Manager is inclined to turn slightly positive from neutral in Asia credit bonds in view of the attractive spread valuation after recent massive credit spread widening. Recent sharp sell-off in risk assets were seen to be pricing in the fear of Covid-19 widespread outside China and the potential negative impacts on global economy. Though acknowledging that, the Target Fund Manager opined that this negativity will likely be temporary. Low fatality rate of this highly contagious Covid-19, lower virus transmission in warmer weather, successful virus containment within China, gradual resumption of business activities, committed efforts of global central banks to support the economic growth and potential vaccine cure are notable reversals of this epidemic fear. As such, staying nimble and ability to ride through this phrase will bring decent returns back to investors.

Overall, anchored Asian demand and manageable supply will remain as a favourable technical contributor towards returns for Asia Credit asset into 2020. The Target Fund Manager continues to like the non-investment grade segment as this segment offers a higher carry especially after recent massive spread widening. However, more stringent credit selection should be applied as idiosyncratic risk is set to rise. Of late, highly regarded government related companies were seen testing their implicit support system and these shall serve as a precedence for many to follow. Amidst such an environment, the search for yield and the need to stay invested must not be neglected while the Target Fund Manager reiterates the importance of increased focus credit differentiation to avoid potential pitfalls. On the duration strategy, the Target Fund Manager will be staying broadly neutral in overall duration though the Target Fund Manager may engage in tactical duration positioning.
