MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET REVIEW

The S&P 500 index was flat in January, returning -0.04% (total returns, in USD). Following a strong equity market in 2019, increasing 31.49%, the index followed the same trend until volatility picked up at the end of the month. In the fourth quarter, the US economy grew at an annualized pace of 2.1% and broadly remains on solid footing. Economic data remains mixed, with manufacturing weaker, but supported by a strong labor market and consumer. The December release of the ISM manufacturing survey showed that the sector continues to contract; however, the services side of the economy remains robust. On a geopolitical front, the markets were briefly distressed by tensions between the US and Iran, and there are ongoing concerns with the coronavirus outbreak in China. The best performing sectors were Utilities, Information Technology, and Real Estate while the worst performing sectors were Energy, Materials, and Health Care.
