MANAGER’S COMMENTS

MARKET OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Equity

Wall Street correlated world stock markets remain remarkably well bid given the appalling macroeconomic data being announced. Apart from the over-the-top Federal Reserve policy response, the spread of the virus has not been as bad as feared in the middle of March 2020. Secondly, there remains growing focus on re-opening the economy, most particularly in America and in other countries where the curve has flattened.

The trade deal between United States (US) and China resurface again recently. Tensions have re-ignited as the former seeks to make the Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) blame game a key focus for the elections as growth and low unemployment have imploded. The press highlighted dramatic steps the US can take versus China including heightened tariffs, multi-country isolation, further sanctions and restrictions (ala Huawei), restricting US purchasing of Chinese assets, and limiting access to US Dollar.

In terms of strategy, with the COVID-19 pandemic under control, we are overweight in South Korea and China while maintaining a neutral allocation in Japan. We keep our overweight exposure in pharmaceuticals and technology sectors and we stay invested in consumer names with strong balance sheet and strong brand name.

Sukuk

2020 would be defined as the year of a new global pandemic, the highly infectious COVID-19 with over 3.2 million cases globally as at 30 April 2020 and still accelerating, with confirmed cases outside of China now constituting 97% of global confirmed cases. The pandemic has increased the likelihood of a global recession, leading investors to rush to safe haven assets and cash and causing asset prices everywhere to fall significantly.

Bank Negara Malaysia (BNM) on 5th of May 2020, has cut its Overnight Policy Rate (OPR) by another 50 basis points (bps) to 2%, a level last seen during the 2008-2009 global financial crisis. The central bank has noted that with this latest cut, the OPR has been reduced by a total of 100 bps since the start of the year, complementing the other monetary and financial measures it has made as well as fiscal measures announced by the government this year. Recent indicators shown that the global economy is already contracted with global growth projected to be negative this year. With widespread containment measures implemented globally coupled with international border closures and following weak external demand, Malaysia’s domestic economic activity is expected to be impacted. While it is necessary for the movement control order (MCO) to contain the spread of the virus, it has also constrained production capacity and domestic spending. On top of that, both labour and economic conditions are expected to be challenging while fiscal stimulus with monetary and financial measures to offer some support to the economy. In term of inflation trajectory, BNM forecasted it to be muted this year with average headline inflation to be negative on account of substantially lower global oil prices. BNM has guided that inflation to be around -1.5% to +0.5% in 2020.

We expect the local government space to stay supported on widening yield differential versus the United States Treasury (UST); whereby it does increase the attractiveness of our local government bond/sukuk and being renowned for its resilience towards any selloff due to deep onshore support and in-built back stop measures. We will continue to monitor the situation of markets and remain constructive on the local bond/sukuk market as the current macro backdrop continues to provide positive vibes for fixed income investments.
