MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET ENVIRONMENT

Asian high yield market posted positive returns in May. Tightening of credit spreads and high coupon income contributed positively to performance. The reference index for the target fund retraced around 45% from record March widening. Despite renewed signs of the US-China tensions, market rallied as stimulus measures announced by regional economies supported investor sentiment. A standoff between the US and China over a new national-security law that China imposed on Hong Kong fuelled tensions during the month. Furthermore, the US government imposed new restrictions on Chinese technology giant Huawei and uncertainty remained around a US bill that could delist Chinese companies on its exchange. Nonetheless, policy support measures by regional governments and central banks supported investor sentiment. China National People's Congress (NPC) signalled towards a step-up in stimulus responses albeit in a restrained manner with emphasis on fiscal measures. The NPC declared a fiscal deficit budget of over 3.6% of GDP, which will focus on financial relief for small businesses and households, as well as infrastructure investment. It also decided to drop China's traditional annual economic growth target given the significant challenges facing the economy following the COVID-19 outbreak. Meanwhile, the People's Bank of China pledged to pursue a more flexible monetary policy and provide sufficient liquidity. Elsewhere, Indian government announced INR 20 trillion stimulus package amounting to around 10% of the country's GDP to restart the economy.

TARGET FUND POSITIONING

Going forward, the Target Fund Manager hold a cautiously constructive view on the Asian High Yield market. Post COVID-19 outbreak, China is expected to recover relatively faster than the rest of world. That said, given the damage caused by the pandemic to the global supply chain and economic activity - a V-shaped recovery is unlikely. Meanwhile, risk from a second wave of virus outbreak cannot be ruled out. Acknowledging the potential headwinds, downside to risk assets is likely to remain contained since China has the willingness and ability to ramp up stimuli in monetary and fiscal terms. Trade tensions de-escalated between the US and China with the formal signing of phase one of the trade deal earlier this year. However, with the US going through a COVID-19 hit business and election cycle and more sensitive topics still pending to be discussed in phase two negotiations – scope of headline driven volatility still exists. Outside of China, the Target Fund Manager believes there are potential rooms for rate cut in other South East Asia countries as well. Potential fiscal stimulus is possible following the example of corporate tax cut in India.

Technicals are likely to remain supportive as investors explore for yield amid easing bias of central banks. The Target Fund manager expects defaults to remain around 3-5% for 2020 - higher as compared to 1-2% of 2019. Acknowledging potential risks, the fund is overweight credit beta - with a strong focus on income, whilst offering attractive capital gains prospect over next 12-15 months. The Target Fund Manager will continue to selectively and passively add risk while managing overall liquidity. The fund has 15-20% market weight in short dated (<1;1year)/near-term callable bonds and cash to ensure a robust liquidity profile and maintain high natural income. In terms of duration, the target fund is overweight.

DISCLAIMER:

Based on the fund's portfolio returns as at 10 May 2020, the Volatility Factor (VF) for this fund is 10.8 and is classified as "Moderate".
