RHB-OSK CAPITAL PROTECTED DUAL OPPORTUNITIES FUND (formerly known as OSK-UOB CAPITAL PROTECTED DUAL OPPORTUNITIES FUND)

This Fund aims to provide income and capital appreciation over the medium term whilst protecting investors' capital on the Maturity Date.

MANAGER'S COMMENTS*REVIEW

In July the Purchasing Manager's Index for the services sector in China fell to 54.2, this was the lowest since six months. However second quarter growth picked up to 7.5%, back from its 18 month low of 7.4%. The heated housing market has calmed down due to a slowing economy and after the government had been trying for almost five years to sooth the market. Along with other casino stocks, Sands China missed investors' estimates on second quarter profits and fell during July whereas China Agri-Industries rose to a five month high driven by the publication of solid China GDP data. Dongfeng Motor which was performing well since the merger announcement with Peugeot halted due to increasing geopolitical tensions in the Ukraine and Middle East. Gold price had dropped after a surge of 19% of Chinese gold demand was reported for the period between January and June.

MALAYSIA BOND OUTLOOK

The rebound in 2Q2014 US GDP supports our view that the 1Q2014 weakness was temporary. We expect the economy to grow at an above trend through 2015. Economic fundamentals have improved, fiscal drag is fading, and financial conditions are providing a significant tailwind to growth. Inflation is likely to remain quiet, despite some higher readings earlier this year. The Fed is in the process of revising its exit principles, but we do not expect the Fed to hike rates until 2H2015.

On the European front, we are not making any changes to outlook for ECB monetary policy and continue to expect that the persistence of low and below target inflation, with a fragile recovery, will lead the ECB to launch a large-scale asset purchase programme by end of this year. Meanwhile, in Japan, there appears to be more to sluggishness in consumer spending that just payback to frontloaded demand ahead of the consumption tax hike in April. Also, Prime Minister Abe is expected to make a final decision in early December 2014 on whether to implement another consumption tax hike in October 2015, although there seems to be no consensus on this issue now. For now, we continue to expect the BoJ to ease monetary policy further in late October 2014

Back home in Malaysia, inflation and Ringgit volatility will continue to shape market direction. The recent strengthening of Ringgit could see more foreign buying into the MGS market as rates move higher. However, we expect Ringgit volatility to be more pronounced given growth and financial market uncertainties globally. Also, prospect of inflation depending on further subsidy rationalization plan, could add pressure to the front end of the curve.

All in all, we still see BNM to keep rates steady at 3.25% throughout the year barring any negative surprise in financial imbalances. On this note, we expect the govvy yield curve to remain flat.
