MALAYSIA BOND OUTLOOK

OPEC's unexpected move in keeping production target unchanged in the face of falling oil price shows that there is still room for commodity prices to fall further. This will exert a downward pressure on inflation globally, in addition to the weak global growth trajectory forecasted by IMF and World Bank. However, lower global inflation should strengthen the existing policy easing bias of most central banks around the world. We also viewed positively People's Bank of China ("PBoC") swift move to cut 1-year lending rate by 0.40% and 1 year deposit rate by 0.25% in respond to worsening economic situation and rising financial risks. We expect more policy easing actions to be carried out throughout 2015. This outlook, if carry out as expected in 2015, will provide some breathing space for Emerging Market export oriented countries especially the voice of reverse fund flows is expected to get louder in the face of US eventual tightening.

Back home in Malaysia, the pause in OPR hike came in no surprise as the Governor of BNM has largely guided the market in her speech during the IMF conference last month. No doubt Malaysia's fiscal space might be strained by the continuous slump in oil prices but the introduction of GST next April and the complete removal of fuel subsidy on 1 Dec 2014 which is welcomed by rating agencies, should mitigate this. This is likely to support Malaysia's sovereign rating, which is one of the key aspects in maintaining foreign fund flows.

Notwithstanding this, with Ringgit fallen by 2.5% MoM over USD, we believe it will trigger some small scale capital outflow especially with our high foreign holdings of MGS. The next milestone to look forward is the 2015 auction calendar which will determine the overall duration appetite. The calendar is expected to be issued in December. At this juncture, we remain our tactical overweight duration strategy alongside with no hike in OPR lookout for 2015. With the primary corporate bonds issuances still fresh, we continue to overweight corporate bonds over govies and participate in primary market for better yield pick-up.
