MANAGER'S COMMENTS*MARKET REVIEW

Asia IG corporates widened 3bps on average in September, in line with the spread widening in US after being stable and resilient for most part of September. Global central banks continued to be dovish with Fed maintaining the key "considerable time" phrase in its statement and PBOC injecting RMB500 billion into the five major banks in the form of SLF (standard landing facility).

However, treasury still sold off significantly in the middle of the month in fears of any signs of tightening out of the FOMC meeting, dragging down bond prices. 2-year and 10-year US Treasury increased 8bps and 15bps respectively. Risk sentiment also took a nosedive towards the month end as Bill Gross shocked the market by announcing his exit from PIMCO to join Janus. Meanwhile in Asia, political unrest arose as pro-democracy protesters launched the "Occupy Central" campaign in Hong Kong which further dented market tone. Nevertheless, market it did not feel panicky and the sell-off was quite orderly, possibly demonstrating the strong technicals given still flushed liquidity and expectations of further stimulus from China and the ECB.

STRATEGY

Overall conditions for credit may stay supported given low volatility, low rates, low growth and expectations of Euro & Japan QE. More supply is expected in October after holidays in Hong Kong and China. We note that valuations continue to look stretched from historical range and leave little room for disappointments. We remain selective on credit risk.

We will continue to be defensive and buy fair/cheap bonds and sell/take-profit on pricy bonds based on relative value to stay nimble amid market volatility. We will also participate in primary issues with attractive pricing to deploy cash selectively while taking profit on existing holdings.
