MANAGER'S COMMENTS

MARKET REVIEW

Major bond markets continued the downward drift in yields with low realised volatility during April. In terms of positioning, some concerns about equity markets and uncertainty about the evolution of the Fed policy contributed to muted trading with low volumes and little conviction about the direction.

The Asian credit market continued to rally over the past one month as the new Fed Chairman, Janet Yellen, assured the market that interest rates are unlikely to be hiked in the near term. Asia credit spreads tightened by another 6.25 bps after having tightened by 22.7 bps in the previous period. 10-year UST yield fell 9 bps during the 7 March to 7 April period to 2.70% on 7 April. The JACI total return index (including accrued interest and in USD terms) gained 0.63% during the 7 March to 7 April period from 1.55% in the previous period.

The FOMC kept their forward guidance language unchanged, and continued to taper by $10 bn at their April meeting. This latter action brings the purchase pace for May and June down to $45 bn ($25 Treasuries, $20 bn MBS) — nearly half the initial pace for QE3. It will take a high hurdle to deviate from tapering by $10 bn at each meeting. For now, the Committee looked through the weak 1Q data as weather distorted, noting more confidently that “activity has picked up recently.”

General market sentiment continues to be supported by expectation of modest economic growth and low rates. In our view, current pricing leaves little room for disappointments, with potential shock factors lurking in geopolitics.

STRATEGY PERFORMANCE

The strategy had negative performance in April. The short dated markets range traded without exhibiting strong trends resulting in a weak performance of the strategy.

STRATEGY OUTLOOK

The strategy is generally long with most positions coming from long Eurodollar and Euribor futures with some shorts in AUD Bank Bill futures, Euroswiss and Short Sterling short dated interest rate futures. Should the market price in central banks staying lower for longer, the strategy may deliver positive returns in the short term. If price action is negative for Eurodollar and Euribor interest rates markets while positive for Short Sterling, AUD Bank Bill and Euroswiss futures, the strategy may lose money. Range trading environment may be also negative for the strategy.

We will continue to be defensive and stay nimble in light of market volatility while overweighting on good quality high grade credits. The RHB-OSK Focus bond funds will await opportunistically for entry points as well as participate in primary issues with attractive pricing to deploy cash selectively while taking profit on existing holdings.

DISCLAIMER:

As this is a close-ended fund, units are no longer available for sale on the basis of the Prospectus dated 3 September 2012. Investors are advised to read and understand the contents of the Prospectus dated 3 September 2012, which has been registered with Securities Commission who takes no responsibility for its contents, before investing.
